

The Center for Psychological Wellness, PA

Roger B. Moore, Jr., PhD
Clinical and Forensic Psychology

Dear patients, clients, colleagues and friends,

It is with a blend of excitement and sadness that I share with you that I will be retiring in June of 2026. As some of you may know, I went to college planning to go to dental school but was introduced to psychology early in my studies and truly found my passion. I have been involved in direct patient care since 1987 and my career has allowed me an amazing life of growth. I have often said that I feel like I learn more from each of my patients/clients than I am able to give to them ... that I am an evolving and growing work in progress and hopefully each successive person I work with is able to benefit from that growth in knowledge and wisdom. It has been a blessing to me to have people come to me for care and to trust me with their lives, secrets and vulnerabilities and to allow me the opportunity to have a positive impact on their journey.

I know that endings are always hard. For those of us who are in fields where we have long, ongoing trusting relationships, such as primary care providers, Ob-Gyns and therapists, people count on us as a stable part of their care ... and lives. Closing those relationships for whatever reason – life transitions, moves, health or retirements – is always tough. But I have talked with many of you about being mindful and purposeful in life and the choices made towards growth and fulfillment; thus, it is appropriate that I do the same and I have reached the difficult decision that it is time for me to open a new chapter in my life.

I apologize to those of you who are learning of this news via the impersonal format of an email; I have shared it with those with whom I have met over the past couple of months but for those I have not seen recently, I wanted you to hear it first from me, even if through this manner.

It has been abundantly clear to me throughout that having a strong and viable practice has been due in large part to the amazing staff who have played a critical role in providing care and for them I am grateful and say a very heartfelt “thank you!”

I thank all of you for allowing me to be a presence in your lives and share with you the excitement of all of our journeys ahead!

Roger B. Moore, Jr., Ph.D.
Clinical and Forensic Psychology